FINANCIAL REVIEW.

Henry Clews' Weekly Letter on the Business Situation.

MARKETS CONTINUE DISTURBED.

Though Some Improvement in the Money Outlook-Local Demagogues Responsible for the Denver Panic-The Speculative Market-The Silver Question Has Now Little Influence as it is Taken for Granted the Sherman Act Will be Repealed-The Duty of the Savings Banks.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The financial markets continue disturbed and excited. So far as respects money, there has been some improvement; but it has been rather in the spirit prevailing among the banks than in any increase in the funds available for loans or discounts. From some points, currency has been flowing inward; but the new disturbances at Denver, Kansas City and St. Louis have caused outward remittances that have probably offset those gains. The banks, however, are confident of their ability to control the situation and remain expectant of an early turn in the current of affairs. They attach no serious importance to the troubles among the far Western small banks, as it is found that those institutions are generally in a sound condition and may be expected to re-sume payment so soon as the tempor-ary panic among depositors subsides. The "run" on the Denver banks appears to be chiefly due to the exciting har-angues of certain local demagogues and silver fanatics, and therefore must sub-side on the sober second thought; while there will remain the advantage of its weakening the pro-silver element in Congress during the coming debate on the Sherman act. The silver States are having a taste of the fruits of their pol-icy and will henceforth better under-stand what that policy means.

The stock market has been unsettled and widely fluctuating. The "bears" have summoned their whole force of attack, employing every resource of rumor and canard and assailing almost every important stock on the list in detail. With allies in London, they have also attacked our securities in the transatiantic markets, causing heavy declines there and London sales in this city. Their forces have been handled in concert and with great skill, and some heavy declines have resulted from large "short" sales, from which, however, there have been quick recoveries many nurshapes to cover the sales. The upon purchases to cover the sales. The unsettled condition of the London mar-ket and the bank troubles in the west have encouraged the "pear" side, and that they have not made a deeper im-pression on the market is clear evi-dence of its intrinsic strongth. Pur-chases for investment are certainly on chases for investment are certainly on the increase, and hearded money is gradually being turned into the divi-dend-pajing stocks. Quotations are low enough to justify Quotations are low enough to justify large marginal purchases, but the difficulty of borrowing money on time at present precludes such operations on any considerable scale. The experience of the past week, however, demonstrates the ability of holders of the leading railroad stocks to protect their interests, and "bears" may find it prudent to moderate selling that brings no profit. The general conditions affecting the market admit the hope of a favorable turn in affairs. Although general the market admit the hope of a favorable turn in affairs. Although general business is still suffering, it is rather, however, from apprehension than from any generally unsound condition of affairs. The number of failures has been few compared with the radical nature of the disturbance, and those that have happened have shown an entirely exceptional ratio of assets to liabilities. As a rule, there is no serious distrust among banks against commercial paper; the restraint on dismercial paper; the restraint on dis-counts are due to the difficulty of keep-ing up the reserves to the logal limit; and when the scare subsides and the now hoarded money begins to flow rapidly back into the banks, there will be no difficulty in the mercantile community getting all the accommodation needed and Wall street will then get plenty of time money also. The new plenty of time money also. The new troubles among the western banks have, for the time being, put a stop to the reflux of currency that set in some ton days ago; but, in the absence of new outbreaks of that character, the movement may be expected to reappear. It is the natural course of such a disturbance as we are now experiencing to be followed by a lull, in which currency accumulates in the banks and a period of extreme ease in money sets in. We seem to be now verging upon that turn in affairs, and all that is needful to its appearing is a constation of startling accidente.

The one thing, outside of the needful silver legislation, that would, above all others, hasten this recuperative move-ment would be the return to the banks of the many faillions of money now hoarded by the savings banks and other institutions. The coutinued retention of this money from banking tends to foster distrust, and it prevents the fosior distrust, and it prevents the banks from assuming a position of strength that would put a new face on the situation. It is purely a blind and selfish timidity that is keeping this money from use and thereby crippling the banking resources on which the whole country is directly or indirectly dependent. Do not the administrators of these funds think it time they relaxed their paralyzing grass?

dependent. Do not the administrators of these funds think it time they rolaxed their paralyzing grasp?

The silver question has now but a partial influence upon the course of aliairs, for the reason that it is taken for grauted that all danger from that source will be eliminated by the early action of Congress upon the Sherman act. It begins, however, to be more clearly appreciated that, following that action, something should be promptly done to give greater elasticity to our bank circulation. With a view to that end, I recently suggested to the comptroller of the currency that the national banking laws should be so amended as to admit of notes being issued up to the full paramount of the bonds deposited; and that also the banks should be permitted to issue a further amount of circulation up to 75 per cent. of their surplus. The surplus funds over capital of all the national banks I find now amount to about $230,000,000; which would admit of issues of notes argregating $172,000,000; which, added to the increase that would come from the other suggested source, would permit an increase of close upon $200,000,000 in our national bank circulation. The backing of these notes in cash or its equivalents would constitute the most colld kind of security, especially as the funds would be placed under the custody of the comptroller of the currency.

The Weel Trade

do not appear to encourage buying on the part of maffulacturers, as they will only take what they are forced to have at any price. Orders for goods are backward, and, with the uncertain future as regards expected tarift changes, manufacturers want no wool on hand, and only meet pressing needs. Delaine fleeces have sold lower at 25a26c for Ohio and 23a24c for Michigan, while combing fleeces are quoted about 1c lower, former quotations being nominal. Torritory wools are in large supply, and values are easy to a cash buyer. Australian wools cannot be sold in competition with domestic fleeces except at a sharp loss to the importer, do not appear to encourage buying on cept at a sharp loss to the importer, and sales are consequently slow.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK. The Events of the Week-Extensive Improvements to be Made.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligences. Mr. Lake Park, Md., July 22 .- The young ladies, guests of Mountain Lake hotel, gave a very interesting concert in the parlors Thursday evening. Last night a musical and elocutionary entertainment was given in the auditorium by several of the students of the Phila-delphia school of oratory. It was decidedly fine and to the credit of the

The Mountain Lake Park Association

The Mountain Lake Park Association subscribed $5,000 in stock to the proposed railroad which will place Pittsburgh within three hours and a half of the park. Only 14 miles remain to be built. The road reaches Pittsburgh via Confluence and will place 500,000 people nearer the park than Wheeling is.

The past week has been one of the most eventful periods in the history of the park. The stockholders of the Mountain Lake Park Association held their annual meeting on the 18th and arranged for many improvements. The sum of $5,000 was appropriated to put the lake in good shape. A competent engineer will be employed at once to make necessary surveys, so that the bulk of the work may be done this fall. The lake will cover about thirty acres The lake will cover about thirty acres of ground. One thousand dollars was appropriated to enlarge the auditorium, which is too small to accommodate the crowds who gather at it. Trees are to be set out along Arbutus Glade drive from the depot up into the park. The community, at its annual meeting on the 19th, ordered over 1000 feet of eight-foot plank walk to be made, new avenues are to be opened and all the streets put in good order. Additional lawns are to be placed through the park. The question of sewerage received careful attention.
